

the entrance to my building. Once I found a live shell right outside my door; I don't think the police left it there.

One typical email I received from a Muslim at that time read: "You deserve to be raped in every hole by hordes of Muslims, slapping and choking you, spitting in your mouth and pissing in ya face."<sup>9</sup>

Another Muslim wrote on my Facebook page: "If there is a freedom of speech to insult Islam, then there is a freedom of killing those who insulted Islam."<sup>10</sup>

Another Muslim posted pictures of me next to photos of bloody dismembered bodies, and wrote: "Bitch and the infidel and the insect to hear if they do not cancel your page on Facebook that insulted Muslims try to follow you where .saqom I will withdraw the bones of your body the greatness of his bone and do I cut Naked body parts and burned in front of Aailtk.accaffr Aasalibih Stdffe I swear to you the price of your life. The bomb around your home and be in the grave."<sup>11</sup>

Facebook didn't take down his page, of course, but I've had mine censored many times.

I debated British jihadi Anjem Choudary on Hannity. We discussed the fatwa issued against me by ISIS. When I pointed out to Choudary that the ISIS alert referred to me as "khanzeer" (pig—the same term Muhammad used before he beheaded thousands of Jews), he said khanzeer [pig] was a term too good for me.<sup>12</sup>

Andrew Bostom pointed out, "But not once has Hannity... informed the Fox News viewing audience that this ugly, Jew-hating reference derives from a specific verse in the Koran, sura (chapter) 5, verse 60 (Koran 5:60)."<sup>13</sup>

The Boston Plot

I heard about the jihadist plot to behead me when CNN called me for comment, citing anonymous law enforcement sources. I neither confirmed nor denied. I knew nothing.

When the plot came to light, Boston Police Commissioner William Evans confirmed that a knife-wielding jihadi fatally shot by terror investigators had "discussed beheading a well-known conservative blogger before changing his target to police officers."<sup>14</sup>

USA Today reported that "Evans confirmed on the Today show that the person Rahim had targeted was New York-based blogger Pamela Geller, an outspoken anti-Muslim activist.”<sup>15</sup>

When it came to light in June 2015 that Boston jihadis Usaama Rahim, Dawud Sharif Abdul Khaliq (David Wright), and Nicholas Rovinski were plotting to behead me, the mainstream media went into full panic mode, trying to deny the plot against me and downplay its significance.<sup>16</sup>

The media wanted to make it all about Pamela Geller—“controversial,” “provocative,” “inciteful”—as if they thought that if they got rid of me, they would be rid of the problem.

The media has been avoiding reality since 9/11, and now we are suffering the consequence. There is a problem in Islam with or without Pamela Geller. By virtue of this jihadist murder plot against me, I became the proxy for every freedom-loving American who refuses to submit to violent intimidation.

I am the Islamic State’s target because I am, unlike most of the mainstream media, refusing to bow down to them and submit to their dictates. They want to make an example out of me in order to frighten the rest of the US into silence and submission—that is, to frighten those who have not already submitted.

I am often asked, “Aren’t you afraid?” Of course, but it is far scarier to do nothing.

This is not about me. They mean to kill everyone who doesn’t do their bidding and abide by them voluntarily.

This is a showdown for American freedom. Will we stand against this savagery, or bow down to them and silence ourselves?

Rahim ultimately grew impatient with the prospect of traveling to New York to kill me, and decided to attack a police officer in Boston. He was killed. But this won’t end with me or with the police whom Rahim and Abdul Khaliq ultimately decided to target, because the Islamic State and other jihadis have vowed nothing less than to destroy America. They have detailed manuals plotting full-scale insurrection and blood in the streets here. The attempt to kill me was another step toward forcing the US into subjugation.

The one thing that was consistently ignored that came out of Garland was that ISIS was not just coming, it was here. And we are thwarting attacks on a now weekly, sometime daily, basis.

Will the media realize what’s at stake, and that their heads are next, or continue to target me because they hate my message of freedom? Even after the Boston plot was uncovered, they continued to target me. Nor has law enforcement shown any particular interest.

Reuters ran the headline, “Activist says Boston beheading plot targeted her; police express doubt.”<sup>17</sup>

That was just a blatant lie. These people were depraved. Considering the horror, the planned savagery against an American citizen for supporting free speech, Reuters had nothing to say about the jihadists, the mosque, the ideology, the gore—instead, they just made stuff up to demonize and smear someone fighting for freedom.

Braying for blood.

What’s more, before I ever heard of this plot, the FBI asked me for an urgent meeting, at which they told me that something serious was being planned. But they wouldn’t tell me what it was. Now we know.

Meanwhile, people saw me being targeted and thought, “Well, that’s her business,” or, “She provoked them.” They didn’t realize that whatever happened to me wouldn’t stop with me. More demands would follow. The worst thing we can do is accommodate their demands—that will only prove to them that violence and threats work, leading only to more violence and threats.

Why isn’t the media talking about who and what is behind their holy war? The Boston mosque that Rahim attended was a terror mosque—as was the Phoenix mosque attended for ten years by the Garland jihadis Simpson and Soofi.<sup>18</sup> Simpson tried to gain the respect of men in his mosque by quoting Islamic teachings word-for-word. He was featured in a 2012 video fundraiser for the mosque. And two other members of the same mosque, Hassan Abu-Jihaad and Derrick Shareef, are now in prison for jihad terror activity.<sup>19</sup>

Yet the imam to these jihadis claimed he was shocked by Simpson and Soofi’s jihad—that they were gentle fellows. Are we supposed to believe that they learned Peaceful Islam at the mosque but were “radicalized on the Internet”?

Again, why aren’t the supposedly peaceful teachings of Islam that are supposedly taught at American mosques not able to withstand the jihadis’ appeal?

This mosque ought to be investigated. The FBI should be surveilling this mosque, impounding their phone records. Was anyone from the mosque in contact with Muslim groups in Garland? Was there any communication between Phoenix and Garland?

Several surveys have shown that 80% of mosques in the US teach hatred of infidels and the necessity to replace the Constitution with sharia. No one cares.

Meanwhile, the Boston Globe reported in September 2016 that one of the men charged earlier this year with supporting the terror group ISIS and conspiring to recruit others to a 'martyrdom operations cell' has agreed to plead guilty in federal court in Boston. Nicholas Alexander Rovinski, 25, of Warwick, RI, was charged in June 2015 with conspiracy to support ISIS. He was later indicted on charges of conspiracy to commit acts of terrorism transcending national boundaries, and obstruction of justice, and faces life in prison. He is slated to plead guilty Thursday.<sup>20</sup>

He faced life in prison after pleading guilty to two terror charges, but will probably not be sentenced to life. Mystery surrounds this case; he was supposed to be sentenced in May 2017, but then the sentencing was moved back without explanation to October 26, 2017.<sup>21</sup> The government was working on a plea agreement with Rovinski. There was a significant difference between Rovinski and his fellow jihad conspirator, David Wright: Rovinski came into the plot later in time, and played less of a role. The deal that will likely guide his sentencing will require him to receive a sentence of at least 15 years.

The maximum sentence for aiding ISIS is 20 years. The first count in Rovinski's case involved the initial charge against him: conspiracy to provide material support to ISIS. Prosecutors were unlikely to get a guilty verdict on that one, because while Rahim and Wright were both in touch with ISIS operatives in Syria, Rovinski was not. He reportedly has cerebral palsy and walks with a limp, and is very limited in speech and movement. Wright, not Rovinski, was the ringleader of the plan to behead me. The evidence is overwhelming against Wright.

In conversations that were recorded by law enforcement officials, Rovinski says very little. Rahim decided that he didn't want to wait until July 4th, which was initially the day they had chosen for their jihad attack.<sup>22</sup> He, of course, eventually grew so impatient that he discarded the idea of traveling from Boston to New York to behead me, and suddenly decided to kill a police officer in Boston instead.

In the conversations, Wright exhorts Rahim to stay firm, very much like the Blind Sheikh in the plotting of the 1993 jihad attack against the World Trade Center. Wright is speaking constantly. Rovinski is hardly heard.<sup>23</sup>

I am skeptical, however, of the possibility that he is repentant or has reformed. Rovinski wrote two letters from prison to Wright. He was still calling for beheading and clearly was a convinced and committed jihad terrorist, eager to murder for Allah.

Authorities are hiding the fact that Nicholas Rovinski has left Islam and returned to Catholicism, but I was told this by the prosecutor in the case, Stephanie Siegmann. The prosecutor told me that he has not only renounced Islam, but done so publicly, and has returned to the Catholic Church. If that is true, he will not be part of the privileged Muslim population in prison, and will not receive the perks they receive (better food, more time outside the cell for prayers, etc.). He may also be in danger from Muslim inmates who want to enforce Islam's death penalty for apostasy.

The Rahim/Wright/Rovinski jihad plot was to behead me, but of course, Boston Globe reporter Milton J. Valencia never bothered to ask me for comment when he wrote about it. It was typical of an enemedia that is only interested in allowing pro-jihad, pro-sharia voices to be heard.

Bottom line: if it were up to me these people would have been designated enemy combatants. This was not a law enforcement issue. This was war.

Nor were they alone. In August 2016, it was revealed that a Muslim in North Carolina was also involved in the plot against me. He posted this portion of the ISIS fatwa: "Our aim was (Geller) and to show her that we don't care what land she hides in or what sky shields her. We will send all our Lions to achieve her slaughter."<sup>24</sup>

Islamic jihadists want to make an example of me. They want to prove by killing me that they can and will act with impunity in the US, and that Americans must submit to sharia blasphemy laws—or else.

The tremendous cowardice of American media in submitting to their wishes and not showing Muhammad cartoons only encourages those who are calling for my death, as it shows them that they can get what they want by means of violent threats.

This is ultimately not about me; it is about whether America will stand for freedom or surrender.

I don't want to die, but I will not live as a slave.
